

Council Decides Building Problem

For several weeks past building has been held up on the proposed structures of a double store building by Esbern Olson and a single store building by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sales. Both places are on Michigan avenue.

The trouble regarding the building line started a score or years ago when the first store building on that street was built on or near the real property line which is in the neighborhood of six feet in front of the then usual building line. This was, presumably, done in order to gain more floor space. This practice has since been followed by other property owners on Michigan avenue within the block nearest the Michigan Central railroad.

At present Sorenson's Furniture Store, the Mac & Gidley and A. & P. Co. stores, on the south side of the street, and Shoppenagons Inn, Cassidy buildings, Hanson Cafe and Nick Schjotz store all extend out of close to the real property line. All will agree that this jagged condition does not improve the appearance of the street within that block.

Now that new structures are to be built in the block further east, owners desired to build out to the real property line. At one of the early meetings of the present council it was voted that this would be allowed within 18 inches of the property line. There was some opposition to this plan by some, they claiming that by keeping new buildings and new fronts in a line with that that has been used for about 60 years the appearance of these blocks would not be marred.

The agitation took on considerable magnitude and more or less bitterness arose. The council decided that the question should be definitely decided once and for all time to come. Accordingly building permits were withheld and attorneys Charles Moore and Nellist engaged to present the matter before the Circuit court, representing the interests of the city. Attorneys Yeo and Biltzko of West Branch were engaged to represent the Esbern Olson interests. The matter was discussed pro and con in many town circles.

Finally at the last Monday meeting of the City council the matter was again presented and a motion to grant building permits to Mr. Olson and Frank Sales permitting them to bring their buildings to within 18 inches of the regular property line. Following is the way the council voted on the question: Yes—Mayor Burke, aldermen Roberts and Jensen, Nays—aldermen Olsen (Chris) and Milnes.

GRADUATES WITH HIGH HONORS

It's always with a lot of pride that we like to tell of the successes of Grayling boys and girls, and we know friends will be pleased to know that Miss Elaine Reagan, only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Reagan will graduate on June 19 from the University of Michigan, with an A.B. degree in literature, science and art. Just as she graduated from Grayling High school, she is completing her college work with high standing. The young lady has worked hard to attain this and we are sure her friends and those of her late parents will extend happy congratulations.

Miss Elaine has accepted a position with the Children's Aid society of Detroit, and will take up her work soon after graduation.

As the University of Michigan will celebrate its 100th anniversary during graduation, the festivities will last for a week.

Waldemar Jensen Passed Away

Waldemar Jensen, artist, painter and decorator, and an estimable resident of Grayling for 45 years, passed away at his home Monday morning, following an illness of ten months duration. Mr. Jensen's health had been failing and in August of last year he submitted to an appendectomy operation. Again on November 5th he submitted to another operation and since then had been steadily failing. Everything possible however was done by his physician to bring about his recovery but the nature of his illness was incurable. All of Grayling and many outside people regret the passing of Mr. Jensen.

Mr. Jensen was born in Presto, Denmark, August 13, 1868 and there his childhood was spent, and it was there that he learned the profession that he followed until his health failed. Coming to America in 1890 he first located at Gaylord where he remained for a year, then coming to Grayling. After coming here he was united in marriage to Marie Sorenson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Severin Sorenson. His work in painting and decorating was outstanding, so much so that he was often called to Detroit and other large cities, where he did work in some of the best homes. In Grayling many of his works of art brought the highest compliments. He was without a doubt an expert in his line. During his career he also taught many young men in Grayling the painting and decorating trade.

The funeral of Mr. Jensen is being held this afternoon with services at the home at 1:30 o'clock, followed by services at Danish-Lutheran church at 2:00 o'clock.

Surviving the deceased besides Mrs. Jensen is one brother, William Jensen, of Gaylord, and a host of other relatives and friends. The sympathy of the community is extended the family in their bereavement.

TO FORM C. OF C. COMMITTEE

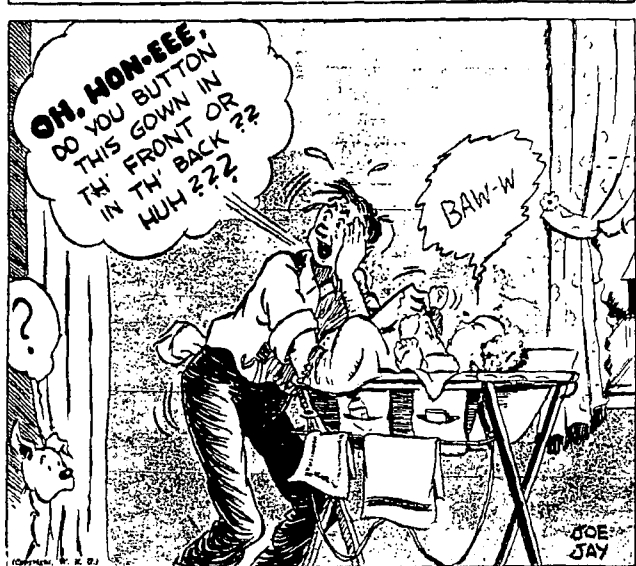

At the mass meeting held Tuesday night it was unanimously agreed that this city should have a Chamber of Commerce. Just in what manner this should be organized was not definitely settled. There was a good attendance and everyone present had something to say and suggestions to offer.

Royal A. Wright was the chairman. That there was imperative need of prompt action it was suggested that a committee be selected, two members from the Izaak Walton League, 2 from the Kiwanis club, two from the American Legion, two from the Woman's club, two from each of the churches and two from the City council.

In order to get this organization in action it was agreed that the set-up of the Izaak Walton League be used as a clearing house for at least this present season. President Royal A. Wright agrees that the league will provide such clerical assistance and office as is necessary for the present. Appointment of the members by the several organizations will be announced just as soon as they have been selected.

The suggestion that the I. W. L. sponsor and present the canoe carnival this summer is meeting with united public opinion and the league officers have accepted the responsibility and a bigger and better and better-managed canoe carnival is now assured. This fine organization, under the able leadership of Mr. Wright, is in excellent position to do a great job of this event. Dates will be announced later and will be some time in early August. Ernest Borchers has been appointed chairman.

Golf Course In Fine Condition

GREENS EQUAL TO BEST IN STATE

People who like to play golf will enjoy Grayling's nine-hole course. While we have always boasted of a fairly good course, this year stands out as an example of what a good golfer would say "it's great."

From the first tee to the ninth hole the course is in almost perfect condition. Bent grass greens are enjoyed by but few courses, except for a number of the professional tournament courses. Cropped to the sod, a ball rolls over them in perfect precision, and their "fastness" is quite surprising.

Fairways are much smoother than ever before and long rolls following line drives are the general rule, much in contrast to the fairways of former years. And for those who find it hard to keep within the fairways they will find the "roughs" not bad. New metal flags have been put into use and no longer is there a flimsy, faded-out flag to mark the "pin." The club house too is being made more comfortable and inviting. Bill Joseph is the new club house manager and will do his part in conducting the business and club house activities.

This year's officers are as follows:
Dr. C. R. Keyport, president.
Esbern Olson, vice president.
Wilhelm Raab, secretary-treasurer.

HARDIN SWEENEY RISES TO HIGH RANK IN U. S. ARMY

Hardin Sweeney, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Sweeney, of this city, graduate from Grayling high school and former Avalanche "Printer's Devil," is making great progress in Uncle Sam's regular army.

In those early days in Grayling Hardin was recognized as a young man with lots of ambition and enthusiasm. He was a good student and was dependable in everything he attempted to do. He did like athletics and was a worthy foe in the prize ring.

After finishing his school work he went to South Bend to take up a course in commercial art. Being short of funds he soon had to abandon that work. An army recruiting office attracted his attention and he signed on the dotted line, and was sent to a military fort in the state of Washington.

During his early weeks as a rookie in a regular army military camp, bulletins announced that examinations would be held for commissions and Hardin got busy and by hard work and study was able to pass the examination and was commissioned second lieutenant. He didn't stop there but kept up his studies and it wasn't long before he had a first lieutenant's commission. A captain's job was the next station and when the World War broke out and experienced officers were in demand, even though he hadn't quite reached the required age of 21 years, he was commissioned captain and given charge of a company and sailed with the regular army forces for France. He says that he believes he was the youngest captain to serve in the war.

The rank of major was attained and for the past seven years he has been commandant of the Reserve Officers Training Corps at Creighton University, Omaha, Neb. After serving the usual four-year term at that University, he was re-appointed commandant there for three years in succession at the request of the president of the University.

The university commencement program that was given last week, contained the following:

Honorary Degree

Master of Science in Military Science and Tactics.
Hardin Cleveland Sweeney, officer and gentleman, Major of Infantry, United States Army, D. O. L., Professor of Military Science and Tactics and Commandant of The Creighton University R. O. T. C. for one full term of four years and for three repeated extensions of service of one year each at the urgent special request of The President of the University has assisted in developing a course of study that has been officially adopted by the government, has brought the Creighton R. O. T. C. to an excellence that has five times won the highest government rating, has contributed much to both faculty and student welfare by effective leadership in University life, and in general has by reason of his disinterested, distinguished and devoted service merited the degree of Master of Science in Military Science and Tactics.

Last Sunday morning we were pleased to receive the following letter which we are glad to publish as it will be of interest to Major Sweeney's many Grayling friends. It reads as follows:

The Creighton University,
June 4, 1937

Mr. Oscar P. Schumann
Grayling, Michigan.

My dear Oscar:
Many years ago when I was employed in your office as "Printer's Devil" you took the occasion to give me some very sound advice. I have endeavored during the years to apply that advice whenever it was applicable to the situation. It has been of material assistance to me and I am now taking the opportunity to thank you for your early interest in my behalf. Therefore, I am enclosing a copy of the Commencement Week Program at Creighton University, where it has been my pleasure and opportunity to have served for 7 years. I am leaving Creighton by War Department orders transferring me to the 3rd Infantry at Ft. Snelling, Minnesota. Shortly I expect to receive a promotion to the grade of Lt. Colonel. This I am sure you will admit is a long step from the "Printer's Devil" who you used to employ in your office.

Fraternalty yours,
H. C. Sweeney.

Well Known Firm Quits Business

LOCAL CREDITOR GETS LETTER OF REGRET

A manufacturing firm that has been in business almost as long as we can remember, recently wrote a local creditor a letter that is self explanatory. While connected with the printing industry in Grand Rapids the Macey Co. was one of our best customers and it is hard to realize that this fine manufacturing concern is being forced to liquidate its resources. Its affairs are now before the circuit court of Kent County for hearing on the petition for liquidation.

The letter reads as follows:
The Macey Company,
Grand Rapids, Mich.
May 25, 1937.

To Our Creditors:
It is with regret that I inform you that on Saturday, May 22nd, the Board of Directors of The Macey Company decided to take the steps necessary to accomplish an immediate liquidation of the Company.

This action came as the direct result of a strike of the men in our wood working plant on Monday, May 10th.

Probably no industry in the country was more seriously affected by the depression than the office furniture business. Our company had for fourteen years prior to that period a very satisfactory earning record, and at the beginning of the depression had accumulated a cash reserve of over $100,000. The business declined to less than 20% of normal, and the heavy losses which this occasioned soon wiped out the cash reserve.

Since that time our management, because of these losses, has had great difficulty in financing the Company's operations. This was only accomplished, and the Company kept in operation for the last two years, by personal guarantees and through the extension of unusual credits by some of the concerns with which we had done business for many years. It was hoped and expected that with improved business conditions the Company could operate at a profit, and that if this should occur some plan of reorganization could be worked out whereby the Company could obtain additional capital.

The operations for the last six months have justified the judgment of the management in continuing the business during the last year. We have operated without a loss and conditions seemed to be steadily improving.

Two weeks ago our employees went out on a strike and have taken illegal possession of our property, and this has paralyzed the Company's operations. When the strike first occurred only the men in our wood working plant went out. The employees in our metal plant and printing plant did not strike. They wanted to continue to work but were forcibly restrained from entering the buildings, and there was denied to them by the crowds of pickets the right to work which is supposed to be guaranteed to them by the laws of the State of Michigan. I want to say in justice to our men that I am sure from what I have heard that many of them did not want to leave their work and go on a strike.

A complete cessation of all operations, including shipments, which came as a result of this strike, occasioned an immediate operating loss. In the weakened financial condition of the Company it has not the means to absorb this loss; therefore your

Board of Directors decision to apply for a Receiver in Liquidation was made absolutely unavoidable in order that the interests of all concerned, creditors and stockholders, be best conserved. If the Company is to retire from the field it is much better that this action be taken at a time when all creditors will realize 100% on their claims.

In view of the decision to liquidate it will be necessary during the period of the strike to reduce our force to the bare minimum needed to care for the property.

It is indeed sad that under the leadership of men from out of the city, who know nothing of the competitive conditions within our industry, that 350 employees, many of whom have been with the Company for years, should lose their jobs permanently.

Very truly yours,
Earle S. Irwin, President

STEALS CITY MANAGER'S AUTO

At the close of the council meeting held at the city hall Monday night, City Manager Geo. Granger, found his car missing. He reported it to Sheriff Bennett and search was made, but it was nowhere to be found in the city.

A parked car in front of the school yard aroused the suspicion of Sheriff Bennett and upon investigation found that it contained not more than a quart of gasoline. They managed to gain entrance and later discovered that it was owned by Miss Elizabeth Grear of Clare. A phone call there revealed that it had been stolen. And no doubt the thieves abandoned the car and took Mr. Granger's that was well filled with gas. As yet the latter car has not been found.

HAVE YOU ever taken a stroll along the streets of the South Side and noted the almost total absence of sidewalks? Well, just try it one day and you will realize what those citizens residing on that side of the Ausable river have had to wade thru for all these years. We realize that a lot of civic improvement has been made in that part of the city, especially with its almost complete coverage of waterworks, and that there is a limit that may be spent in city affairs, however we believe that a term program of sidewalk building should be planned for that part of Grayling. There are a lot of homes and a lot of people residing on the South Side and they are taxpayers and sidewalks are just as desirable there as they are in the more populated section of the city.

Besides Mrs. Harrison there are Mekavoc, Visic, Kreljewi and Durzek; two of them still reside in Europe. Mrs. Gorence resided in her native land until she was 43 years old when with part of her family she came to America and settled in Vahampton, N. Y., residing there for six years. She later resided in Pittsburg for 12 years and came to Grayling about 20 years ago and this has been her home since. Besides the five daughters several grandchildren survive. Those in attendance at the funeral included members of the Harrison family who reside elsewhere, and a niece, Mrs. Katherine Valsice, of Detroit.

Base Ball

As It Should Be Played.

(Interviewing John Kobs, varsity baseball coach at Michigan State college, by Max Henkel, first string pitcher. Second of a series of six articles.)

Pitching

"The mistake of most young pitchers, who get sore arms easily, is not one of wind-up or delivery," said Kobs, when asked to give his advice to youthful pitchers. "It is one of preparation. A pitcher should warm up thoroughly before attempting to throw. This is particularly true early in the season. Calisthenic exercises provide the best means of getting this initial warm-up, and should be taken immediately upon arriving at the field."

"And the trunk and legs should not be neglected. Those parts of the body must be in tip-top shape to play any position on the field, a fact that though widely known, is not universally practiced."

"When the arm is in shape, and properly warmed up, work on curves, fast ones, and change of pace balls. In fact, any delivery that is in a pitcher's line should be worked on every day. Many youngsters think that as they have a certain throw 'down pat,' they need not practice it until five minutes before the game, and as a result find that it isn't working right. They lose confidence in their best forte."

"When a player gets in the game, he naturally uses the throw which he has mastered best for the greater share of pitches. If this is not working he is very apt to blow up and lose a ball game because of lack of practice."

"The psychology, is obvious, and should provide ample incentive to a pitcher to give every type of delivery equal consideration in his practicing."

"Perfection of control is, or should be, the aim of every pitcher. This is done by not throwing too hard at first, and by throwing at the catcher's target. And every man who is or hopes to be a pitcher should have control of his fast ball. Though there are many styles of throwing, master one at a time. A straight ball, properly controlled, is much more effective than a curve ball that is breaking all over."

"And if the arm is sore, don't throw hard, and if very sore, don't throw at all. Rest, heat and massage are the only practical cures for a very sore arm, which may be the result of a torn muscle or ligament, or from undue strain."

"A pitcher should always have his arm relaxed, in fact, his whole body should be completely relaxed. Work without the wind-up at least a third of the time for much of the time a pitcher will have runners on base and must be prepared for such conditions."

Dress Simplicity Compulsory

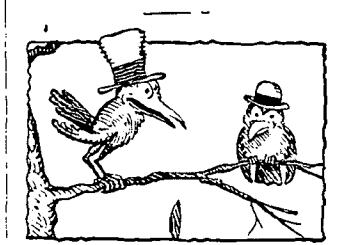

One of the first acts of the general assembly during the French revolution was the abolition by solemn decree of all distinction in the dresses of the classes. Simplicity was the keynote in costume and dark colors and cheaper materials, especially cotton, took the place of the silks, velvets, ribbons, and laces of the former reigns. Fashion still mirrored the events of the times, both in the names of materials and the articles of apparel. Straight lines took the place of the panniers a few years before and a masculine type of dress, borrowed from the English, was the result.

BAIT

The talk had turned on intelligent animals, and some very tall stories had been told, when old Joe chipped in.

"Clever animals?" he queried. "I bet none of you ever had a pet to equal my old cat. He was very fond of cheese. If it was on the table at meal-times and he smelt it, he'd come over and bug for a bit. One day it struck me that every time he'd had a bit of cheese he wouldn't wait for anything more to eat, but always cleared off right away. The next time I gave him some cheese I watched him go off, and followed him. Do you know what that cat was doing? He was sitting by a mouse-hole, breathing heavily down it!"—Stray Stories Magazine.

TRUE TO NAME

"I got gold-bricked in the city." "Ha, ha, ha, a regular 'jay bird,' eh?"

Couldn't Be Rude

The very raw recruit had just had a real good dressing down from the young lieutenant. Next day he passed the lieutenant without saluting. He was stopped. "Why didn't you salute me?" demanded the officer. "Well, sir," said the rookie, "I thought you were still cross with me."

Close at Hand

His car had struck a pedestrian in the village crossroads. The victim was lying unconscious and the villagers were standing around with their mouths open.

"Motorist—Don't stand there doing nothing! Run and get the village doctor."

Nearest Native—"Tain't no use, mister. That's him you've run over."

Just What He Said

House Buyer—Look here, you swindler, when you sold me that house for $5,000 you vowed to me that in three months I wouldn't part with it for $10,000.

Real Estate Agent—Yes, that's exactly what I said. You haven't parted with it, have you?—Pathfinder Magazine.

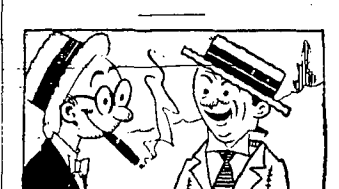

No Prophecy

"Would you promise to love, honor and obey?" "Never," said Miss Cayenne. "Circumstances change as life goes on and our sentiments change with them. Even in the elated mood of a bride I should hardly assume to possess the gift of prophecy."

We've Had Some, Too

Waiter (bringing order after long wait)—Are you the boiled cod, sir? Customer—No, just a lonely sole with an empty place, and I want to fillet.—Birmingham Post.

NOT A FEW

"Fringe on the skirt went out some time ago." "Fuh?" "But it continues to be worn on pants."

A Bird of a Scare

Jack had taken up gardening and was telling the other boys about the scarecrow he had fixed up for his birds.

"Did it work?" asked one of his listeners.

"Did it work? Jack echoed. 'Why, the birds not only stopped grabbing my seeds—some of 'em brought back those they had taken the week before!'"

Some Joker, Eh, Boss?

Jauntily into the office came the office boy (other morning, to be met with an amazed stare from the Boss. "What's the idea?" barked the B. "Somebody just called and said you were sick and couldn't come in!"

"Ha, ha," ha-ha'd the o. b. weakly. "The joke's on him. He wasn't to phone till tomorrow!"

Not So Breezy

Tourist—When I was here last there were two windmills. What has become of the other one?

Native—We had to take it down. Tourist—Why?

Native—There was only wind enough for one.

Calm and Dumb

Dimchurch—He's one man who keeps his head when all around him are losing theirs.

Bungwit—Yes, he's so dumb he has no idea what the excitement is all about.

Mrs. Pekker—Oh, look, Henry! I've just found a four-leafed clover! That's a sign of a forthcoming marriage.

Mr. Pekker—Nonsensel! It's a sign of good luck!

Very Summery

Bright field flowers are primly arranged around the dull blue velvet crown of this attractive Breton sailor. The trim is of natural colored straw braid. Matching velvet streamers tie over the back of the hair.

FIRST AID TO THE AILING HOUSE

ODD JOBS ON FURNITURE

THE usual varnish finish of a table top turns white under a dish when alcohol or other liquids are spilled on it. These white marks are damage to the varnish. If the varnish is damaged through the wood, the only remedy is to scrape it out and to refinish. But more usually a white mark is only on the surface. The treatment for taking it out depends somewhat on the kind of varnish used in the finish; but one or another of the following will probably succeed—a little of a liquid being applied lightly with a cloth; turpentine; linseed oil; spirits of camphor. Another method is to rub lightly with finely powdered pumice stone and any light oil, applied with the finger-tip. Cigar ash can be used in place of the pumice stone.

A dent in wood is actually the crushing of the wood fibers. To take out a dent, cover with several sheets of blotting paper wet with water, and press with a fairly hot iron; the steam will swell the fibers and bring them back to their original positions. A nick or a break caused by the clipping off or gouging out of some of the wood can be filled with shellac in stick form, which can be held in all of the various wood colors and shades. Stick shellac looks like sealing wax. To apply it, a screwdriver blade is heated hot enough to melt off some of the shellac, which is then pressed into the break in the wood. When it has hardened, it can be cut off and made level with a razor blade or by rubbing with fine sandpaper.

Loose chair rungs can be made tight through the use of thin and small slips of steel made for the purpose, and usually to be had at a hardware store. The loose end of the rung is pulled out, a slip of steel of the right size is placed against it, and the two are forced back into the hole. Having fine teeth, the slip binds the rung tightly into place.

When a chair has loosened all over, due to exposure to dry air, it is best to take it completely apart and to put it together again with plenty of glue. The parts should then be tightly bound with heavy cord until the glue is thoroughly dry.

Squeaks in a wood bedstead are due to the loosening of the glued joints. To cure the squeaks, the joints should be taken apart and reglued.

A split in a table top, also caused by drying out, can be brought together by exposure to damp air; sometimes by laying damp cloths on both sides of the split. When a split has closed, small pieces of flat metal, to be had at a hardware store, should be screwed on the under side, to prevent the split from reopening.

News By Nosey

In contrast to the river news of the past two weeks, of folks who own their cabins, small and large, I must tell you about our tent dwellers. These young persons have the grandest times over, and can they sing! Sometime when you are near Shaw's Park on a week end, (for they all work during the week) and their lot and tent are not on the river, remember, they have one of the back lots on the road that everyone built, just stop by and listen to the harmony.

One chap plays the banjo uke, and the rest sing. Their songs go forth on the night air and have the effect of a siren. Singing to entice the sailors to steer from their course and draw close that they may hear her songs, the difference being that ships were wrecked in those days, while with our young minstrels the neighborhood is beautifully entertained.

Sometimes you see one family of neighbors at the tent, then, another time only a lone drifter will wander near their camp, stand entranced, just outside of the circle of light thrown out by the gasoline torch, and listen. Those are real entertainers. Call them gypsies of the AuSable, if you will, and perhaps they are; but they are happy gypsies; they do no harm, charge no fee, and make it pleasant for all.

With the few mosquitos we have had this year things have been more or less upset, in fact even the gypsies at times resembled persons afflicted with St. Vitus dance!

Jessie Bailey asked me Sunday how long these mosquitos lasted and I told her I had no idea as we never had them up here until Jim Bailey built his cabin. I leave it to all of you, have we ever had so many before? Well, the gypsy camp had plenty, with their gasoline torchlight going, so they started a smudge pot, and it worked fairly well until someone suggested putting it under the table where we were trying, between jumps to eat lunch, then of course the smudge pot spoiled the lunch and really the mosquitos seemed to like it, I mean the smudge pot and the lunch too!

But leaving all joking aside, this crowd of youngsters, and I believe they are all under or just over thirty, have a glorious time. As I recall their names are Mr. and Mrs. R. Rivet, Lansing; Mr. and Mrs. Art LaCombe, Pompano Beach; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schultz, and Mr. Fred Hahn, all of Bay City. These are the gypsy tent dwellers.

Then right close by, also on a back lot, are the gypsy trailer dwellers. These I shall have to tell you about later, as they are so busy building a cabin, I didn't have the nerve to break the nailing and sawing spell to get the dope, but I am sure I can.

All these persons are having such a good time and getting so much real enjoyment out of their short vacations up here that I couldn't miss telling you about them. You do of course have to get back away from the river to get their hideouts, as with all gypsies!

Not far from them and over a high wire fence, is Whip-poor-will. A party is expected there soon and I'll tell you all about it.

Nearby is Vassar Club; you have seen their signs along the road. Their season is starting and I'm sure many interesting things will be happening that I can tell you.

The activity down at Grant Shaw's hotel is going strong, and there is building in progress. Haven't found out exactly what they are building, but I do know that over Decoration Day Grant had some business, because the cars driving thru Shaw's Park couldn't find any place to park!

SEE TIGERS-SENATORS GAME

The players on Grayling's High school baseball team were given a real treat last week Thursday when they were taken on a trip to Detroit to see the Detroit Tigers tangle with the Washington Senators. There were 21 in the group including Coach Willard Cornell.

Transportation was provided and expenses for the players were paid for by the following persons: Dr. Fred Cook, Spike McNeven, Victor Petersen, Abe Joseph and Sheriff Frank Bennett. Also Leo Schram of this city and Bert's garage of Roscommon provided cars and drivers. They left Grayling at 7:00 a. m. and arrived home at 1:00 the following morning.

The boys were thrilled with their experience and say that everything was provided to give them a great time. They occupied the very best seats in the grandstand. That they appreciate it goes without saying, and are loud in their praises of those who made this fine outing possible.

Lansing—How to yield to home district pressure for additional state aid and at the same time to balance the budget without additional taxes is the A-1 legislative problem this week at the state capitol.

The state legislature, entering its final lap of a six-month session, is in a generous mood, all in all.

State institutions have been granted increased appropriations to meet rising costs and to place operations on a post-depression basis. Financial experts are now warning legislators that present appropriations will top the $100,000,000 mark, and that further spending of public funds without tapping new sources of revenue will put Governor Murphy in the same budgetary position as President Roosevelt—operating government at a deficit.

Deficit of $16,000,000?

Here is the financial puzzle:

The senate has approved a bill to grant $47,000,000 state aid to Michigan public schools. This amount is sought by Dr. Eugene Elliott, newly re-elected state superintendent of public instruction, and the Michigan Education association. Republicans held a caucus preceding the vote, but examination of the roll call shows that balloting was not on party lines. Yet the only active opposition came from three democrats—Sen. William Palmer, floor leader; Sen. J. Neil Lamoreaux, finance committee member, and Sen. Ernest C. Brooks. Wayne county democrats voted for it.

The senate has approved an additional appropriation of $5,000,000 so that the state highway department can match more state funds for federal aid in road construction. The department will receive approximately $50,000,000 from automobile weight and gasoline taxes, of which $26,000,000 will be returned to the counties. In its original form the measure would have appropriated $11,000,000 from sales tax receipts—half going to county commissioners and the remainder going to the state. The $5,000,000 bill is a substitute, leaving the county road commissioners to row their boat alone.

Libraries, Snow Removal

Also favored by home districts are the following measures which threaten to throw the budget out of balance unless new taxes are imposed:

Library state aid of $1,250,000. Likely to pass.

Eradication of coyotes, $75,000.

Teachers' retirement fund, $530,000.

Snow removal in upper peninsula, $600,000.

Elimination of bangs' disease in cattle, $250,000.

For old age pensions, now available to persons at 65 instead of 70, the sum of $10,000,000 has been voted instead of $4,000,000 heretofore.

The philosophical attitude of Rep. M. Clyde Stout (D), chairman of the ways and means committee, tells the story of what you may expect: "Increased governmental activity means increased cost. . . A boost in expenditures cannot be avoided."

Income Tax Unlikely

Spending tax money is one thing.

Imposing new taxes is a horse of a different color.

A movement for a state income tax had a short life several days ago after rural legislators had tentatively approved a bill exempting from taxation the first $2,000 of valuation on every home. This relief to home owners would have deprived governments of $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 annually and would have made necessary the adoption of a new tax raising plan—probably a state income tax.

Urban representatives, led by able Rep. John Hamilton (D) of Detroit, went into action and the bill was stopped, but only after democrats retired to hold a caucus and to hear doleful warnings of a disastrous deficit.

Crippling the Courts

Before the state senate this week is the much-discussed and much-amended labor relations bill. . . the so-called, "Little Wagner Act" for Michigan.

The original measure, as endorsed by the governor, was later revised materially at the insistence of A.F.L. and C.I.O. leaders so that the financial records of labor organizations would not be open to inspection of the state labor board, so that the representatives for collective bargaining may be chosen without an election. That minority employers do not have the right to sue for damages to their employers, and so that the employer cannot obtain temporary legal relief through appeal to the court for a restraining order while the negotiations are pending.

Even labor-minded Representative Hamilton of Detroit declared that the present bill, as revised and as passed by the house, was poorly drawn and very bad in spots. "If this is the governor's baby, then let him rock it," was Hamilton's snappy retort.

Under the substitute labor relations bill an employer would have to prove that he has made every reasonable effort to settle the dispute by negotiation before he could go into court for relief. Practically, this provision would cripple the courts in granting relief for property rights against threatened irreparable injury.

It is pointed out that the anti-injunction clause goes even beyond the federal Norris-LaGuardia act which contains a provision for a court appeal in the above-stated emergency.

"Revolution"

According to Detroit commercial leaders, the recent automobile sit-down strikes have caused manufacturers to reconsider plans to open new plants in Michigan.

The so-called "revolution in Michigan," given wide publicity by national magazines, may react unfavorably to increase unemployment, it is pointed out, unless investors can be reassured that Michigan is still safe and sound for both labor and capital. The answer will be written this month before adjournment at Lansing June 18 or 25.

Legion Jottings

The American Legion 10th District meeting will be held in West Branch next Monday.

The Tri-District convention of the American Legion will be held in Traverse City Sunday, June 20th, and our local Drum Corps will participate in the parade there at 12 o'clock noon on that date.

All members of the Drum and Bugle Corps are requested to be at the golf course tomorrow evening for practice as we have several places to go and this practice is very urgent; so this means all of you.

WHAT HAVE GOLF BALLS TO DO WITH BEER?

Nothing—except that all golf balls look pretty much alike. It is hard to determine the quality just by appearance.

Different brands of beer look a lot alike, too. It's the way they are made that counts.

Altes Lager is brewed to the private recipe of Louis W. Schimmel. This gives you a beer of highest quality and different from ordinary brews. That's why Altes Lager can never be successfully imitated. The only thing like it is another bottle of Altes Lager.
